SUMMER SPEECH CAMP

This two-week camp for high school students provides a foundation in three genres of competitive speaking: public speaking, oral interpretation and limited preparation events. Students learn event fundamentals, develop written and oral communication skills and engage in team building. Students work in small groups and individually with renowned high school and college coaches and share their work with peers for support and feedback. At the end of camp, students participate in a performance showcase demonstrating prepared events that can be used in the upcoming competitive season.
